State Union Central Committee. In the list which was handed to us for publication, of the names of the gentlemen constituting this Committee, the name of one of the gentlemen who had been appointed, was inadvertently plicity of his Rebel opponents. Let omitted.

As corrected, the list is as follows: ALLEN A. HALL, Chairman. A. V. S. LINDSLEY. JOHN LELLYETT. RUSSELL HOUSTON. HORACE H. HARBISON. M. M. BRIEN.

The Election on Thursday.

It may be well enough to assure all enemies of the Union that it is utterly idle for them to base any hopes upon the election to be held next Thursday for Judicial officers. Under no state of case will these or iny other offices be suffered to pass into the hands of disloyal men, or men who sympathize with the mebellion. This point is inevitably and unalterably settled. It is fixed beyond dispute. He who expects by any trick or chicancry to ride into a place of power and profit in the State of Tennessee, which is under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government, assuredly reckons without his host. The offices within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government are for the friends iscence to some people : exclusively of that Government, and no man will be recognized other than as an enemy, who aids, abets or countenances the Southern Confederacy. It is certainly the climax of impudence and insolence for a rebel to ask to be elected to any office within the Union lines, and to make his treason a hobby to ride into a place of profit and trust. Certainly all votes cast for a disloyal candidate will go for nothing.

Returning Home!

We are highly gratified to hear of the giurn of a large number of Tennesseans from the unholy and wicked crusade against the Federal Government. It is noble and manly for us to forsake a bad cause, when we see our errors. It is a wretchedly false pride which leads men to persist in error, when convinced of their wrong. We affectionately and earnestly advise all persons who have come home from the rebel army to come forward, without delay and renew their allegiance to that good old Government which never deprived them of a single right. They will be freely pardoned by so doing. The Government is kind and magnanimous.

Bearding House.

"We refer our readers to the card of Mr. ABERNATHY, who has just opened a Boarding House. He will doubtless prove himself fully worthy of patronage.

We tender many thanks to a lady of this city, who sent us a very elegant bouquet of the sweetest flowers of spring, list at least once a week. typifying the glorious "Red, White and Blue" of the National Union flag. May God bless her as we do.

A gentleman informs us that he heard a woman, a professed Christian, say, the other day: "If a son of mine were to desert the Confederate army, I would make him go back." Aye, go back to toil, to hardships, to filth, to hunger, and to disease. Go back to nights of anguish and days of sorrow. Go back to rebellion, to treason, and to certain death. May God forgive that unfeeling, unmetherly mother! What madness is this rebel frenzy!

We see some strange sights occasionally in this State. There are actually candidates asking for office, who if elected are ready to take their cath of office and commissions under the Federal Government, or under the Rebel Government if it should be successful. They seem dead to all sense of propriety and shame in the matter, and are ready to swear to any thing which will "put money in their purses."

In giving insertion Sunday morning to the omitted List of Advertised Letters lished by GEORGE W. CHILDS, of Philafor firms, we should have said the omission was the fault of the printer and not of the Postmaster.

a lady who was walking with another, vending it, as well as the publisher. as they met a Union officer on our streets the other day. Shame! Shame! Shame!

Meeting at the Market Rouse.

A large crowd gathered impromptu at the Market House last night, to hear M. M. Baten, Esq., candidate for Circuit Judge. He made an animated, bold and altogether admirable speech, with the true Union ring in it. There is no mistaking his position; he is a thorough straight-out loyalist. How strongly does his conduct contrast with the duevery Union man come forward to the polls and give him the zealous support which he so well deserves.

A True Man.

Montgomery County was represented in the Union Convention by Mr. PEART, an estimable old gentleman, who, when almost every one else grew faint-hearted, stood boldly up and declared his fidelity to the Union. And now, as the reward of his loyalty, he sees the dear old flag restored. We say to him, "Well done, good and faithful servant!"

The Union sentiment of North Carolina is progressing rapidly. A regiment of federal troops has been raised in the State, and the people are offering to take the oath of allegiance. It is significant that scarcely a regiment of North Carolinans has been allowed by Jeff. Davis to remain in the State, nearly all the troops being from other parts of the South.

Editor Nashville Daily Union:

On next Thursday an election will be held for Criminal and Circuit Judges in this State. M. M. BRIEN, TURNER S. are the candidates for Circuit Judge in the District composed of the counties of Davidson and Williamson. W. K. Tun-NER is a caudidate for Criminal Judge in the District composed of the counties of Davidson, Montgomery and Rutherford. We want these gentlemen to come out in the newspapers immediately, and state if they are elected whether they will take the oath to support the Constitution and Government of the United States and the State of Tennessee, and whether they will apply to Governor Johnson and his Secretary of State, or to Governor HARRIS and his Secretary of State, for their commission. We hope Governor Johnson will issue a proclamation immediately to allow no one to leave the city, nor to take out a license of any kind, and for no one to be allowed to hold an office of either trust or profit, without taking the oath to support the Constitution and Government of the United States. -CITIZENS. Talk with Beauregard. INTERESTING PERSONAL NARRATIVE OF THE

From the St. Louis Democrat. Lieutenant T. H. Simmons, of the Illinois 4th Regiment, relates to us the following interesting incident which occurred on the battle field of Shiloh

BATTLE OF SHILOH.

About 11 o'ciock on Sunday the 6th of April, Lieut. S. was wounded, being shot through the left lung. He was supposed to be in a dying condition, and was left on the field by his companions. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon of that ever memorable day, our forces having been driven back from their position, a Cenfederate officer of high rank, and his staff, came upon the ground where Lieut. Simmons lay. The Rebel Officer observing him lying there, not yet dead, and from his uniform taking him to be Union officer, approached him, when the following conversation ensued : The Rebel officer asked Lieut. S. how far it was to the Tennessee river. Lleut. S. being too weak from the loss of blood to speak loud, beckoned to him to come closer, and in a lower tone replied, "two miles and a-half," The Rebel officer shook his head doubtingly. Lieut. S. observed it, and said to him, 'you seem to doubt my word. But you see, added, pointing to his wound. "I am dying, and upon the word of a dying man, to the best of my judgment, it is two miles and a half to the river." The Rebel officer turned to converse with his staff, and ordered his surgeon to give him some stimulants. The surgeon gave him some brandy and morphine, which revived him considerably. The conversation with his staff, which the Lieutenant overheard, was about as follows:

Officer-"It is now 3 o'clock. It is two iles and a half to the river. The distance Murfreesboro' (county seat) Rutherford | is greater than I expected, but we can drive Grant to so close quarters yet to-night that his capture or capitulation will be an easy thing in the morning." The officer turned again to the Lieutenant and asked him about Buell's forcess-their number and position. Upon this subject Lieut. S. was entirely ignorant, of course. The officer then remarked to him, "It's no matter how far it is to the river, we shall whip you anyhow, and force Gen. Grant to surrender to-night, or early to-morrow morning, and then capture Buell, if he makes his appearance on the field." Lieut. S. replied, "You are not so certain of that. You have got hard fighting to do before your capture our forces yet, and Northwestern freemen are not the craven dogs to lie down after the first brush and allow themselves to be taken." "No matter," said the officer, "we shall whip you! Your men won't fight," "Upon that subject," said the Lieutenant, "you will probably be better informed before you get through with to-morrow's fight. You surprised our men this morning, and they were thrown into some confusion; but even this day's work will show that 'our men will fight,' "Well," said the officer, "I admire your courage, and wish such men as you were not fighting against the South; you cannot conquer the South, and aint you sorry you engaged in the war?" "No, Sir," said Lieutenant S., "and I would do it again." "Do your people all feel that way?" asked the officer, Yes, replied the Lieutenant.

The officer said no more, but with a sail look mounted his horse and rode off. One of the Rebel officer's aids had dismounted o water his horse in a creek close by, and before remonating came near where the Lieutenant lay, who beckoned him to come to him, and asked him "who that officer The aid said "that is Gen. Beaure gard." The Lieutenant, however, had recognized him from his striking resemblance to photographs of the Rebel General.

This interesting incident, the personal experience at the battle of Shiloh of one of our intelligent and patriotic neighbors of Illiuois, and who is now in one of the hospitals, in a fair way, we hope, of recovery, shows how anxious the Rebel General was on the evening of that memorable Sunday, notwithstanding his success, to know bow much more he would have to do that night. And hence his eager inquiries, "How far is t to the river?" "Where are Buell's forces?" "How many men has Buell?" &c. Notwithstanding the exhibition of the braggart as betrayed in the boast, "We shall whip you," "Your men won't fight," &c., any one can see that the Robel General was exceedingly solicitous in regard to the probable outcome of that desperately cantested

Lieut. Simmons states that he lay upon the field forty eight hours, and from 11 clock on Sunday, the time he was wounded until 4 o'clock on Monday alternoon, the ground whereon he lay was fought over twelve times, and that he was not trampled to death seems almost a miracle.

We are authorized to appounce Hon. Samuel D FRIERRON as a candidate for re-election as Chancello. of the Fearth Chancery District, composing the countles of Davidson, Williams o, Maury, Giles and

The Richmond correspondent of the Appeal mentions with great pain the large amount of sick confined in hospitals at Richmond and vicinity.

BEFORE CORINTH, May 17, 1862 .- The Macon Telegraph condems in severe language, the conduct of the Rebel troops at Bridgeport, by which a most important gateway to our State was opened to the enemy, and possession of all our rich mines, deposits of coal oil, iron and saltpetre placed in imminent danger.

A general advance along our lines was made to-day towards Corinth. Much skirmishing and several severe engagements. General Sherman's division lost fortyfour killed and a considerable number wounded in approaching Russell's House, which the rebels had been occupying for some time past, worrying our pickets. We succeeded in driving the enemy from their position back to his works. Our men are under arms expecting an attack to-morrow (Sunday morning.) Among the killed rebels left on the ground was one with sword and revolver, supposed to be officer.

Before Corinth, May 17 .- Latest advices from Curtis are that his forces between Searcy and Little Rock Arkansas, rapidly marching on the capitol. Gov. Rector has called out the miltia, but people generally refused to come out. Large numbers applied to Curtis for protection, and desired to come under the old flag.

Our forces under Major Gen. Sherman will occupy Russell House. Skirmishers from 8th Wisconsin only about three hundred yards from the enemy's breastworks. Several rifles captured in skirmish on the right, perfectly new, marked Breese & Freman, Bremen," much superior to rifles used by our sharpshooters, having range twelve or fifteen hunered yards, while ours are only effective at about a thousand.

In all cases the rebels left on the field were shot in the head, the wounded were shot in the neck and breast. Enemy's loss left on the field was about sixty killed, and 100 wounded. Deserters from Corinth report the entire absence of chloroform in medical stores there, and none probably in the Confederacy. The weather is very warm and the roads quite dusty
